Regulation

We have often wondered why the men who are always, and have been so long clamoring for the regulation of the liquor traffic, don't get it regulated. We wonder if they don't wonder why, too.

Well, we don't believe it would take them long to learn why if they were only open to conviction.

In fact it cannot be regulated.
Why? Just because it is the nature of alcohol to unbalance men's minds leading to their spiritual degeneration and to the commitment of crimes.

You cannot regulate the nature of a thing out of a thing. Fifty years ago alcohol was supposed to be a food. Then we began to try to regulate it; but in the light of modern science alcohol has been found to be a poison and a poison only. So we can no more regulate the poison out of the alcohol and make it safe to be sold as a beverage than you could regulate the stale quality out of an egg and make it fit for the consumer. So the only course to pursue is prohibition, and the way to reach that course is to elect men to office who will administer the law when it is made.

There are three general classes of poisons. The narcotics, which affect the nerves; the irritants which affect the membranes and tissues, and the narcotic-irritants which do both.

Alcohol belongs to the latter class and is in the same list as cocaine, chloral, morphine and opium. Then what? Treat it socially and legislatively as we treat the drug narcotics with which it is classed. Prohibit its indiscriminate and beverage use.

Grandfather's chair is looking shabby. It can be brightened up and made to look like new by applying a coat of Campbell's Varnish Stain. Very easy to apply as it works freely under the brush and dries without showing laps. Try it. Money back if not satisfied. Guthrie Drug Store sells it.

A VALUABLE SUGGES- TION TO OUR YOUNG PEOPLE CONCENTRATE

Don't smatter a pint of brains over the vast field of art, science and literature. Don't think that a smattering of Greek and Latin, Analytics and college yells make one a learned man or fits him for business, and don't hitch a business brain to a Greek lexicon.

Many a man becomes nothing by trying to become all. The shot gun uses much more ammunition than the rifle but it isn't half as effective except on little game.

The professions are all overcrowded; it requires half a life time for one to succeed in them, and half a fortune to begin success. With business it is not so.

Get busy; do things; life's too short for business men to spend effort on dead languages and other things two thousand years old, when living issues and golden opportunities are calling them on.

The things that business men want you to know are not taught in a university. They must be learned in a practical business training school like the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas. A school that has for years studied the demands of the business world with its own special; prepared text books and "learn to do by doing" methods of teaching are meeting them.

They are this year adding a course of business administration and finance for those who desire the most thorough business training possible. Young friends there is no walk of life that you can pursue as successfully without a business training as with it.

Next week this paper will publish statements from many of America's greatest statesmen and business men as to the value of a business training.

D. C. Bybee, teaming contractor, living at 669 Keeling Court, Canton, Ill. is now well rid of a severe and annoying case of kidney trouble. His back pained and he was bothered with headaches and dizzy spells. "I took Foley Kidney Pills just as directed and in a few days I felt much better. My life and strength seemed to come back, and I sleep well. I am now all over my trouble and glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Try them. Sold by

Clam Chowder

Tommy Dewitt managed by living frugally in summer to pay his winter's expenses at college. As soon as the school year closed, Tommy was off for parts unknown, and it would have interested his friends mightily if they could have seen him living like Robinson Crusoe on an island off the coast of Maine, catching his own fish, setting his own lobster pots, planting vegetables in a tiny garden and making chowder out of a handful of clams, two potatoes and an onion.

That the result of the last-named recipe was appetizing was proved by the fact that four people landing on the beach from a motor boat sniffed with appreciation.

"It's a clambake," said the youngest of the crowd, a girl in a white serge suit with a short blue reefer.
"Oh, I'm so glad, for I am starved."

Further progress showed a fire with a small iron pot set over the coals. A savory steam rose from the pot.

"But there isn't much of it," said the girl.

"Who's been eating my soup?" quoted a gay voice, and around the corner of a sandhill came Tommy.

"Oh," said the four intruders, starling. And well might they stare, for while Tommy lived like Robinson Crusoe, he wore a snowy white middy blouse and white trousers, his fair hair was brushed up from his forehead and shone in the sunlight, and his strong young figure showed the effect of good training and outdoor sports.

"We don't mean to intrude," said the oldest lady of the crowd, "but we are exploring the islands; we didn't know this one was inhabited."

"And there's something the matter with our boat," said the girl in the blue reefer, "and being women, we don't know how to fix it."

"Delighted," said poor Tommy.
"But I hope you're not keen for chowder. There's only a taste. You see, I cook for one; but such as it is, it's yours."

He busied himself in serving the simple meal. And while he worked he listened. The girl's name, he discovered, was Helena.

"You enjoy living the simple life?" said the oldest dame, whose name was Mrs. Griggs.

Tommy nodded. "It's great," he said. "If you will stay for supper we'll have broiled fish and baked potatoes, and there's some lettuce left in my garden."

"We'll stay," said the girl, "if you'll fix our boat."

All that afternoon Tommy tinkered and the girl watched him while the three elderly ladies took a nap in the warm sand.

Then Tommy went out and caught a fish, and broiled it over the coals.

"And I'm sorry to tell you, ladies," he said, as he served it, "that your boat isn't mended, and that you will have to make yourselves comfortable for the night. I shall be glad to offer you the hospitality of my tent. In the morning a boat stops here with provisions. You can leave on that."

Since there was nothing else to be done, they consented, and after the fish was eaten Tommy and the girl walked down the beach.

They talked of many things; and Tommy lay awake half the night, wondering how he had believed that life was worth living until now.

He slept on the other side of the sandhill from the tent, and waked at dawn. After a plunge in the sea, he went forth in his snowy white suit to face the sunrise.

The girl was up and came down to the beach to meet him in the stillness of the wonderful morning.

"The sea is like a pearl," she whispered, "and the sky like an opal."

Tommy was breathing quickly.
"Look here," he said. "The boat comes early, and before it comes I've got something to say to you—something to say—to you."

She smiled up at him frankly.

"Look here," he said, again, "you're the most wonderful thing in the world. Yesterday I was a boy trying to go through college and living my old way in the summer to help meet expenses. Today I'm a man, ready to fight life to the finish—to get you."

"I haven't a right to ask anything of you, but I've got to tell you this—that if you don't find the one man before I can come to you and fight it out with the rest of them, that you won't compromise and take some other fellow just because you're tired of waiting for the real thing."

Then because he saw Mrs. Griggs at the door of the tent, he went up the sands to meet her, and the girl was left standing where his burning words had beat upon her.

Breakfast was a feast at which the three older ladies ate heartily of lobster, and at which Tommy and the girl ate nothing.

"I'm not hungry," Helena insisted when urged, "and before the boat comes I want to walk to the end of the island—to—to—"

And when they had rounded the curve of the sands and were out of sight, he asked: "Have you forgiven me?"

"There is nothing to forgive," the girl said, "and I shall never forget—because I shall want to remember—and I shall want to—wait."

JOKE PROVES FATAL TO MAN

Boys Set Park Sleeper Afire to See Him Jump Into Lagoon, but Blaze Is Too Quick.

Memphis, Tenn., July 30.—Mitchell Cabaniss, 18, and Clarence Shaw, 10, will be presented in court to be charged with a murder to which they smilingly confessed when arrested.

They explained that they had thought to give Robert M. Ellis only a scare, and occasion for a quick plunge into the pool in Forest park, when they poured a mixture of whisky and gasoline over his clothing, while he slept on a park bench, and then applied a match. Cabaniss just out of an asylum, to which he had been committed for insanity, took the whisky from the victim's pocket, and the other boy found the gasoline, where a park employe had concealed it under bushes.

Police made frantic efforts to tear Ellis' clothes from him. He was dead, however, before the blaze went out.

BATTLE OVER DARROW JUROR

Substitution of Another to Relieve Sick Man Is Strenuously Opposed by Defense.

Los Angeles, July 26.—The controversy over the continued serving of Juror Leavitt in the Darrow trial was renewed in court at the morning session. The defense urged alleged prejudice on the part of Leavitt against Darrow, and also sought to have him excused from further service on the ground that his repeated illness has interfered with the progress of the case.

The prosecution argued against the substitution of A. M. Blakely, the thirteenth juror, claiming the law providing for an alternate juror does not permit the alternate to become a regular juror except upon the death or incapacitating illness of the juror.

District Attorney Fredericks stated that he thought the trial would be finished inside of two weeks.

Mania for Palaces.

The discovery of an intruder at Marlborough House, in London, is reminiscent of the adventures of "the boy Jones" in the early years of Queen Victoria's reign. In December, 1840, he gained access to Buckingham palace and secreted himself there for several days. He was detected by the princess' royal's nurse and handed over to the police.

The privy council examined him, but did not think there was any cause for alarm, and he was sentenced to three months imprisonment as a rogue and vagabond. But no sooner was he at liberty than he made two other attempts to enter the palace. On the last occasion the magistrate gave him the chance of enlisting in the navy, where he was speedily cured of his mania for acquiring a royal domicile.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS.

Notice is hereby given that the following joint resolution proposing an amendment to the State Constitution, was passed by the General Assembly at its regular session of 1911, and that the same will be submitted to the electors of the State at the next general election, to be held Monday, September 9, 1912, for adoption or rejection.

Proposed Amendment No. 11.

That the following article shall be proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, which, when agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each House and adopted by a majority of the electors of the State voting at the next general election for senators and representatives, shall become a part of the Constitution of Arkansas.

"Every male citizen of the United States, or every male person who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the same, of the age of twenty-one years or upward, who has resided in the State twelve months, in the county six months, and in the precinct, town or ward one month next preceding any election at which he may propose to vote, and who is able to read and interpret, or interpret when read to him, if he is prevented from reading the same by reason of any physical disability, any section of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, except such persons as may, for the commission of some felony, be deprived of the right to vote by law passed by the General Assembly, and who shall exhibit a poll tax receipt or other evidence that he has paid his poll tax at the time of collecting taxes next preceding such election, shall be allowed to vote at any election held in the State of Arkansas; but no person who was, on January 1, 1866, or at any time prior thereto, entitled to vote under the Constitution or statutes of any State in the United States, wherein he then resided, and no male person of foreign birth who was naturalized prior to the adoption of this amendment, and no lineal descendant of such person, who shall possess the other qualifications described in this article, shall be denied the right to vote because of his inability to so read and interpret sections of the Constitution of this State; provided, that male persons who make satisfactory proof that they have attained the age of twenty-one years since the time for assessing the taxes for the year next preceding the year in which the election at which he may propose to vote is held, and possesses the other qualifications required by this article shall be permitted to vote; and, provided, further, that the said tax receipt shall be so marked by dated stamp or other written endorsement by the judges of election to whom it may first be presented, as to prevent the holder thereof from voting more than once at any election. The judges of election shall enforce the provisions of this article and shall be the judges of the qualifications of electors."

The above resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on March 16, 1911.

Each elector may vote for or against the above amendment.

Witness my official signature this 12th day of February, 1912.
